

DAILY COURIER.

LOUISVILLE.
WEDNESDAY MORNING SEPT. 12.
NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE,
Of Kentucky.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
GENERAL JOE LANE,
Of Oregon.

Democratic Electoral Ticket.

STATE AT LARGE:
GEORGE W. BROWN, CASTERL.
TIMOLEON CRAVEN, OF ALABAMA.
DISTRICT ELECTORS:
1.—P. THOMAS, OF ALABAMA.
2.—J. H. COOPER, OF DALE.
3.—JOHN DUNN, OF HART.
4.—J. M. GALT, OF KENTUCKY.
5.—M. R. HARDIN, OF WASHINGTON.
6.—T. M. HENDERSON, OF MARSHALL.
7.—H. M. JONES, OF LOUISIANA.
8.—G. W. JOHNSON, OF SCOTTS.
9.—W. H. KELLY, OF GEORGIA.
10.—W. H. ALEXANDER, OF KENTUCKY.

An Interesting and Important Document—The Democratic Candidate for Vice President is a Secessionist.

In the Nashville Union and American, the industry, faithfulness, and ability of which we cannot too highly commend, we find the following interesting extract from the Douglas candidate for Vice President, Hon. W. J. Johnson, which we reproduce in full, without addition, subtraction, or amendment:

We do not think there is anything in the silly charge of secession and disunion which gambling, huckstering, trading politicians, and men against the Union, can lay to their charge. It is a fact, and known to be false by those who make it. Neither BRECKINRIDGE nor Lane are in favor of a dissolution of the Union; and we do not know of one man supporting them who is a die-unitarian per se—who is in favor of disunion unless the Constitution is trampled under foot by a Northern majority, unless the rights of the States are violated, and unless the Southern iniquity and dismemberment of the Union. We have but one man in the South who is not opposed to disunion so long as the Constitution is maintained, and the laws enacted in accordance with its provisions are enforced; and that man is JOHN BELL, of Tennessee, whose language we have time and again quoted, and which in parallel columns with YANCEY'S "SLAUGHTER letter" we give again this morning.

Some of those who know better are mendacious enough, while supporting Bell—those who sentiments no sincere friend of the Union can endorse, or who are in favor of disunion unless the Constitution is trampled under foot by a Northern majority, unless the rights of the States are violated, and unless the Southern iniquity and dismemberment of the Union. We have but one man in the South who is not opposed to disunion so long as the Constitution is maintained, and the laws enacted in accordance with its provisions are enforced; and that man is JOHN BELL, of Tennessee, whose language we have time and again quoted, and which in parallel columns with YANCEY'S "SLAUGHTER letter" we give again this morning.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody.

It is a calamity upon each of those who participated in the proceedings of the Convention that placed Mr. Breckinridge before the people; if the Rebel Cohen did not know it to be false when he uttered it, he should be held responsible.

Those who voted for Mr. Douglas' associate on the Presidential ticket, and who does so, will then be prepared to tell the DOUGLAS man or BELL man who charges disunion on BRECKINRIDGE, or abuses secessionists or disunionists, that he is either a fool or a knave.

LETTER FROM GUY JOHNSON.

MULLENVILLE, Ga., August 20, 1851.

Gentlemen: I thank you for your kind and pressing invitation to a barbecue, to be given to Col. John C. Breckinridge, the Southern Rights candidate for Congress in the Eighth District, the first Tuesday in September next. But official engagements forbid me the pleasure of its acceptance. Moreover, I will be in session at that time.

My personal acquaintance with Col. McMillen is slight, but I know him by reputation to be a gentleman of high moral worth, brilliant talents, and sound republican principles. Such men, however, are not to be expected to be in favor of the great cause which he bears in his heart.

If a Southern State were to decide to withdraw from the Union, the author of the "Confederate Constitution" would be the first to lead the way.

The people of Georgia, in common with her sister slaveholding States, are engaged, is one of vital importance. It is in reality the cornerstone of the Southern character of our system of government. It is the right of every State to determine for itself what course it will pursue in the great cause of the South.

The absurdly false statement made by Mr. Douglas at Norfolk, that Mr. Breckinridge was nominated in order to elect Lincoln, will decide nobody

